PREFACE

In Mount Airy the streets and houses are very irregular, and since the houses were numbered several years ago, new streets have been made and the names of old ones have been changed. Some houses that were numbered on one street are now on a new street, but they still have the same number. This will cause a little confusion in the "Street Directory."

We gathered the facts and statistics of which this book is composed by visiting every home in Mount Airy, and oftentimes young children had to give us the desired information.

On the rural mail routes we had to follow the carriers and stop at the houses to get the names in the R. F. D. Directory.

This Directory is primarily for business purposes and we made no special effort to secure the names of the "floating population" in and around Mount Airy.

We desire to take this opportunity to thank those who have given us their support in this undertaking, and those who have had advertisements inserted in this volume, which have made its publication possible. We commend their advertisements to your consideration.

INTRODUCTION

Mount Airy, "The Granite City of the Mountains," is situated in a rich and fertile valley, in Surry County, North Carolina, almost surrounded by the Blue Ridge Mountains. To the southeast can be seen Old Pilot Mountain, the guide of pioneer days, and now the grim, stately sentinel of the surrounding country. To the south, west and north, a few miles distant, is the Blue Ridge Range, whose lofty peaks stand out like turrets upon these everlasting walls.

Mount Airy is a healthful city. It has an elevation of twelve hundred feet; an unsurpassed climate—fanned by the mountain breezes in summer, and protected from the severe blasts of winter; it is watered by three clear, pure streams which have their sources far up in the mountains. Nearby are several mineral springs, at one of which is a famous summer resort.

Mount Airy is a wide-awake, progressive city. Within the past ten years its population has been doubled and it is growing more rapidly today than ever before. Five thousand inhabitants, a fine waterworks and electric lighting system, splendid fire protection and electric power for sale, sewerage systems, twelve miles of concrete sidewalks, and twenty-five miles of water mains, are some of the facts upon which we make such a statement. We are building good streets in the town and in the township of Mount Airy $80,000.00 is being spent in the construction of a chain of sand-clay roads. We have excellent schools—seven hundred children attended the graded schools last year. From our public high school boys and girls go to our colleges and universities, and enter without examinations.

Just outside the corporate limits there is situated the largest granite quarry in the South. Within the town there are a number of large manufacturing enterprises. The freight receipts paid at this office last year exceeded One-half Million Dollars. Mount Airy is also one of the largest tobacco markets in North Carolina. Five million pounds of leaf tobacco sold last year.

No town the size of Mount Airy in the State has more handsome business blocks, elegant residences, or beautiful churches.

To those desiring to come to a beautiful, progressive and hospitable city, Mount Airy's people extend a cordial welcome.
